1. Description

D2.2b “Contact database of stakeholders” is the deliverable of the WP2 “Analysis and selection of language resources” of the CESAR project. This is its second edition delivered at month 18th.

During this second period (from the 4th until the 18th month) all partners have worked extensively to popularize the objectives of the CESAR project and to spread the results achieved so far. Since the CESAR aims at encompassing a large variety of language resources, language processing and annotation tools and technologies, our target users are developers and researchers in both industry and academia. This includes private and public institutions, companies and individuals involved in HLT research and development: industrial organizations and SMEs, academic institutions, research organizations, universities, individual researchers and students, national governments, EU institutions, and private investors. We have targeted all these users throughout a variety of means – e-mails and personal letters, publications in different media, and a Road show of European language technology, aiming at presenting state-of-the-art, directions and visions of development of language resources and tools for the common scientific and commercial market.

Each of the events made within the Road show (held in different countries) intended to promote knowledge about language technology and its potential, together with the possible threats accompanied with its development. Each time particular attention was drawn to language technology for the language of the host country by presenting new advances in the field and their application in administration and business as well as involvement of open source and research community in the process of development of language resources. This was achieved by gathering experts who tried to answer important questions on the future of language and language processing in a globalized digital information society.

The results of the promotion and our efforts towards reaching out to both the experts in the field and the potential users are described in Deliverable D2.2b.

The aim of the deliverable is to present the relevant contact information for three main groups of stakeholders: Natural Language Processing research and business groups, Natural language Processing profiting groups, and public authorities. The Contact database covers individuals (experts), institutions (research, national-funding agencies, government) and companies (producers and important users) dealing with Language Resources and Technologies.

Since the partners are from Bulgaria, Croatia, Hungary, Poland, Serbia and Slovakia, the contact database presents information for these countries and respective languages: Bulgarian, Croatian, Hungarian, Polish, Serbian and Slovak.

The Contact database consists of contacts information (name, affiliation and email) on the national (and international) level of representatives of the following stakeholder types: research, education, government, industry (vendors, service providers and users), associations, integrators, and others (funding agencies, media, nongovernmental organisations, etc.).

There is also information for the main area of the expertise, namely: Natural Language Processing (with specifying sub-domains such as Machine Translation, Speech Processing, Information Technologies), speech, translation, localisation, interpretations and others.

The last three columns contain newly collected information on whether the specified contact has been introduced to the Cesar project and META-NET, whether he/she has expressed interest in Cesar and META-NET, and whether one or more personal meetings with Cesar partners have been achieved.

The research communities in the field of the Natural Language Processing from the respective countries are represented by means of the most prominent and leading centres and scholars in the field working in different academic institutions, universities and private bodies.

The Language service industry and Language technology industry (local translation, localization and interpretation) are represented by means of the leading companies in the respective countries and abroad.

Finally, the Policy makers: politicians, administration, media, funding agencies, all affecting the language-related community and digital market, are surveyed and indicated.

Thus the relevant groups of researchers, politicians, industry representatives, and additional stakeholders are identified and described in the Contact database to serve as a source of information.

To collect this information, previous surveys are taken into account, as well as information available on the Internet and personal contacts. As a result a comprehensive list of contacts is collected.

The Contact database comprising the representatives from the different stakeholders groups is the result of our extensive efforts towards the promotion of our work within the CESAR project to all relevant groups within the community.

The Contact database may be updated and enlarged after the end of the project.
